

Copyright Notice

All materials produced by the ACS for teaching the Computer Professional Education Program, including all lectures and any supplementary materials, are protected by copyright. Other materials produced for the Computer Professional Education Program are reproduced under Part VB of the Copyright Act 1968 and are protected by copyright.

You are permitted to use these materials only for your personal study and research. Use of the materials for any other purposes, including sale of your personal lecture notes, without express permission of the copyright owner, may infringe copyright.